Dallas Theological Seminary Marks 100 Years of Truth and Love

[Dallas, Texas - Date] - Dallas Theological Seminary (DTS) commemorates its centennial anniversary this year. Since its inception in 1924, DTS has remained steadfast in its commitment to the belief that all Scripture is the inspired Word of God. The founders of DTS established an institution dedicated to training pastors and ministers in all sixty-six books of the Bible. A century later, DTS continues to empower godly servant-leaders for the proclamation of God's Word and the building up of the body of Christ worldwide.

The mission launched by founding president Lewis Sperry Chafer is carried on by 600 faculty and staff members working with 2,600 diligent students. The seminary's influence reaches all around the globe through a network of over 16,000 accomplished alumni, living out the school's enduring motto, "Preach the Word."

"When I think of DTS," says Dean of DTS-Houston Pierre Cannings, "I admire the consistency and reliability of seeking the truth in the authority of the Word."

Seeking the truth together builds a vibrant, loving community. Darrell Bock, senior research professor of New Testament, underscores the significance of unity and global perspective, affirming that the DTS community "helps you appreciate why God designed the church to be a body. We need each other. And awareness of the value of the global church reminds me that getting to know people of varying backgrounds is imperative."

Throughout this centennial year, as we celebrate a century of teaching truth and loving well, we express our heartfelt gratitude for what God has accomplished through DTS. We're grateful for the ongoing influence of the seminary, and we are hopeful for what God will accomplish in the future through Dallas Theological Seminary.
